

PERFECTING OF THE SUBMARINE BOAT.

Diving Chamber From Which Men
May Leave and Enter Vessel
While Submerged.

SEA CANNOT GET IN OPENING.

Compressed Air Used to Keep the Water Out When the Door Is Opened—Interesting Tests
With the Protector.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, Aug. 29.—Through a 4-foot hole in the bottom of the submarine torpedo-boat the Protector, a diver dropped today near Bridgeport, Conn., without admitting a drop of water to the interior of the vessel. He thus reversed the method of Captain Xeno, who, according to tradition, started on ocean explorations, according to M. Jules Verne, by stepping into a compartment of the Nautilus, which the sea water filled after opening a valve.

This seeming violation of the laws of nature was accomplished by means of pneumatic pressure. The compartment, which is 8 feet in length, is at the bow of the submarine craft. The diver and his attendant this afternoon went into it, and after the door in the bulkhead was hermetically sealed compressed air was forced into the chamber until a pressure of 130 pounds to the square inch had been obtained. This was sufficient, when the trap in the bottom, twelve feet below the surface, was lowered, to keep the water at bay.

Although those who stood in the forward compartment, to which Captain Xeno had taken Lake, the inventor of the boat, with confidence, the sight of the sea water, which formed the greater part of the floor of the place, gave them slight feelings of apprehension.

This means of getting on intimate terms with the ocean serves two purposes. In case the submerged Protector should become so disabled that she could not be made to rise, the crew could escape through the trapdoor and ascend to the surface of the water. Through the diving chamber also men may be sent to the bottom of harbors to cut wires connected with submarine mines or telegraphic cables. Theoretically, all the mines which might have been in the harbor at Bridgeport were today made harmless. At the same time a torpedo was fired from one of the tubes of the Protector, which had it been loaded with explosive instead of water, would have wrought havoc with an approaching boat. The programme of tests in the sound could not take place on account of the rough weather. The vessel is to enter into competition with other craft of the same class next October, when the Government may decide to purchase more submarine boats.

The craft is 65 feet long and is at all moments ready to be launched. It is a small, cylindrical, being 12 feet in diameter. Submerged, its tonnage is 170. The motive power is derived from two White & Middleton cycle gasoline engines and from an electric motor. The combined horse power is 40.

On the surface the Protector can make ten miles an hour, the inventor says, and beneath it can average about 10 miles an hour. By means of wheels it may travel along the sea bottom, and hydroplanes assist it in sinking in cases where quick submergence is necessary.

The craft, with the aid of free and compressed air, may remain absolutely submerged for forty-eight hours without causing the crew inconvenience.

CLEVELAND TO FISH TILL END OF HIS CHAPTER.

Cleveland Says He Is More Concerned
Over Protection of His Favorite
Sport "Than of Our Hoary-headed Infant Industries."

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Aug. 29.—Former President Grover Cleveland was among the members of the Old Colony Club at Buzzard's Bay yesterday and Mr. Jefferson presided at the banquet. Mr. Cleveland talked on "fishing." He said:

"It affords me great pleasure to be present on this auspicious occasion. My happiness is qualified only by the regret that in the past I have missed so many golden opportunities. The blame rests entirely with myself. Though I have held a membership in this club for several years, I have not taken time to go to the club and meet my associates as such."

"However, whatever my shortcomings in the past, I am present today full of plans and enthusiasm for the club and am anxious that its mission, the protection of fishing in Buzzard's Bay, shall be accomplished. There may be other objects toward which the energies of this club are directed, but I am willing to take out the benefit of my membership in fishing. I do not say, as do some who go to the circus, that I go to please the children."

"Some of my fellow-citizens scoff and jeer at my fishing. I am sorry to offend the good taste of these respectable friends, but I go fishing because I like it. I enjoy it to the end of the world. I am not afraid to say that I am more concerned about the protection of the fish in Buzzard's Bay than I am about the protection of our hoary-headed infant industries. I am more concerned with the activity of the old fisherman than I am with myself and friends with good fishing than I am with the duties of the next Federal administration."

"It may be known to some of you present that a recent event in my domestic circle has added one to the population of the town of Buzzard's Bay. The new-comer has been weighed and weighed nine and a half pounds. This means nine pounds and no more, no less."

In conclusion Mr. Cleveland spoke affectionately of President Cleveland and congratulated the members of the club upon the results accomplished by the organization. He complimented the officers and urged the members to support the officers enthusiastically. He said business was needed in order that what had already been gained should prove permanent benefits.

SOUR LAKE WITH 10,000 POPULATION HAS NO POLICE.

Lack of City Government Is Being
Keenly Felt and Citizens Propose
To Take a Substantial
Pat Down Lawlessness.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Sour Lake, Tex., Aug. 29.—Sour Lake is now a town admitted to have 10,000 inhabitants. There is no city government and lawlessness has become so general and so frequent that a committee has been appointed by citizens to take subscriptions for the support of a police force.

One night this week a gang of rowdies from Beaumont invaded Sour Lake and after shooting about the place promiscuously for two hours, got into a general altercation and beat several citizens over the head with the butts of their revolvers till it seemed that a general riot and panic could not be averted.

The only officers here now are Deputy Constables, appointed by the county officers and the force is far short of what is necessary to maintain order. It is necessary to maintain order. It is necessary to maintain order. It is necessary to maintain order.
